We're experiencing an exciting period of growth, which means, for you, there couldn't be a more proper time to join us and make your mark.

We are looking for an environmental economist to support a wide range of policy projects within the environmental and energy markets. It is likely that candidates will either come from a consultancy in a project-based role, or from an internal economics role within a government organisation or academia.

Successful candidates will demonstrate the following skills:

- Excellent organisational abilities
- Good problem solving skills
- The ability to communicate, influence and network effectively internally and externally
- A good understanding of commercial imperative
- IT literacy (Word, Excel, Outlook etc)
- Good knowledge of English language is a must.

The Person will have to have:

- Experience in applying economics expertise to energy and environmental projects
- Experience of consultancy or policy delivery within the public sector environment
- Previous experience of winning and delivering projects
- Previous experience of leading teams
- Experience of policy design, analysis and appraisal, specifically focused on environmental and/or energy issues
- Project management – managing complex projects and proposals
- EU, UK and Romanian Policy knowledge
- Educated to degree level in a relevant discipline.
- Degree in economics preferable although not essential, with applied knowledge in the environmental sector

In return for your commitment, drive and enthusiasm, we offer an extremely attractive remuneration and benefits package, a personal development plan, and the opportunity to make a difference in a challenging and rewarding field.

The AEA group strives to be an equal opportunities employer.
